“Development Opportunities & Challenges for Honolulu’s Transit-Oriented Development (TOD)”

Speaker: Terrance Ware

Manager, Transit-Oriented Development, City & County of Honolulu

Join us as Terry Ware, TOD Manager for the Honolulu City & County, shares with us his insights into the development opportunities and challenges associated with Honolulu's High-Capacity Transit Project.

Terry has thirty plus years of experience in many facets of architecture, land development, planning and urban design - in academia, public and private sector practice. His specific areas of expertise are urban design, commercial and neighborhood redevelopment and transit. Prior to accepting the position in Honolulu, he worked for Mayor John Hickenlooper as the Director of Housing & Neighborhood Development, for the City & County of Denver.

Terry has been involved in several transit projects in cities across the United states including: Denver, CO.; Berkeley, Oakland, Scaramento and San Leandro, CA.; Cleveland and Cincinnati, Ohio; Pittsburgh, PA; Pinellas County & Hillsborough (Tampa Bay) County, FL; Charlotte, N.C.; Phoenix, AZ.; Washington, D.C. and Atlanta, GA.
